

The heatmap consists of a 10x10 grid of squares. The color scale ranges from dark purple (low values) to bright yellow (high values). The highest values (yellow) are concentrated in the upper-middle section, while the lowest values (dark purple) are in the bottom-right section.

