

The figure shows a 10x10 grid representing a 2D potential landscape. The x and y axes are both labeled from 1 to 10. The potential is represented by a color gradient from dark purple (low potential) to yellow (high potential). The potential is lowest in the bottom-left corner and increases towards the top-right corner, with a prominent high-potential region (yellow) in the top-right quadrant.

